Louis-Farr Fight Arouses Keen Local Interest

Welshmen Take Keen Pride in Their Countryman's Battle for Heavy-Weight Championship.

Despite all town radios being jittery and noisy on Monday evening, a fairly good reception of the world's heavyweight championship fight was enjoyed. Ears in almost every home were cocked beside radio sets, the ringside broadcast keeping everyone on edge.

The gallant Welshman upset the dire predictions of the sport dopsters, and went the scheduled fifteen rounds with Louis. Possibly the verdict will not be received with popular acclaim in Great Britain, as judging from the broadcast there was a fairly even fight.

But with the big financial interests involved in encounters such as world's championships, it follows that no effort would be spared to keep the championship contests in the United States. The judges quickly came to a decision awarding Louis the victory on points, but it does not take from the credit attaching to Tommy Farr as the heavyweight champion of the British Empire.

Many will concur in Beverly Baxter's pertinent questions in the Sunday (London) Graphic: "Can Farr beat Louis, the New York boxing commission, sports writers, inside men and the American prize fight industry?—perhaps—with a machine gun?"

WILL COMPEL A SHOWDOWN WITH PREMIER ABERHART

CANADA'S PRIME MINISTER RIGHT HON. W. L. MACKENZIE
KING states that the question of disallowance of Premier Aberhart's banking legislation is a closed case as far as the Dominion government is concerned, and further action if any must come before the courts.

WOULD PILGRIM ALL OPPOSED TO SOCIAL CREDIT

On September 5, 1935, Major Douglas in a letter to Premier Aberhart, stated:

"It is, of course, difficult at this distance to know the exact alignment of forces in the province. I should suggest that every advantage be taken of the coming visit of the Dean of Canterbury to place the moral obligation of supporting you squarely on the shoulders of the well-to-do, and more conservative section of the population. I feel sure that he will have considerable success in this direction, but after making every effort of this description, I should not hesitate to pillory by name, either through the press, or through the agency of radio, in every possible way those who refuse to assist."

How well Aberhart is following Douglas' suggestions is evidenced by his threats of licensing the press, threats, boycotts, challenging the Federal government and creating general discord between the province and the Dominion.

Were any other political leader to hint at such measures, one can imagine the popular outcry that would ensue.

FORMER COLEMANITES PAY VISIT

Week-end visitors were Mr. G. R.
Powell, of Calgary, and his son, Ross
G., former principal of Coleman schools, who left here in 1927 to live in Calgary. They recently concluded a motor tour, which took them to Ontario and Manitoulin Island. It was at the latter place that Mr. Powell, sr., was master of the Masonic Lodge, and in fact instituted the lodge there many years ago. He appeared to be in good health and as vigorous as ever. During their stay here they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C.
McBurney.

Fernie Wins Grand Challenge Football Trophy

Defeat Rangers 3-2 at Fernie—Radley Scores Both Coleman Goals.

Fernie 150's reversed the score on Sunday at Fernie grounds from the defeat handed to them the week previous at Coleman. They defeated Coleman Rangers 3-2 in the final of the Grand Challenge trophy. Fernie gained a 2-0 lead in the first half, when Coleman were at their worst, giving a poor exhibition generally.
Disley on the Ranger forward line scored both Coleman goals in the second half.

The teams had barely settled down to their game when Fernie scored, George rushing Emmerson in the Coleman net, who lost possession of the ball for Bennett to rush in to score. Fernie were playing the better game as the inside men fed passes to their wings who were in turn sending over beautiful crosses which had Emmerson worried many times. The second Fernie goal came as the result of a misunderstanding between Joyce and Emmerson, allowing George to score an easy goal which should never have been scored.

Rangers showed to better advantage in the second half and it was only a few minutes after resumption that they were awarded a penalty when Bennett handled the ball in an effort to clear. Radley took the spot kick and made no mistake. Rangers took an edge in play and forced several corner-kicks which proved fruitless. Arthurson, of Fernie, scored what proved to be the winning corner, from a difficult angle, Emmerson being too far out of his net to save.

Radley brought his team back into the game when he scored his second goal which gave Oakley no chance.
Ball missed two real chances from only a few yards out.

At the conclusion of the game Jack Sweeney, former old timer whose name ranks high among the soccer stars of the Pass, on behalf of the Crow's Nest Pass Football Association, presented the Grand Challenge trophy to W. Martin, captain of the winning team.

The next game between those two teams will take place at Michel on Sunday, Sept. 18, when the Crahan trophy will be at stake.

"Ding-Dong" Bell Means Holidays Are Over

SCHOOLS RE-OPENED AFTER MIDSUMMER HOLIDAYS

Many an older boy and girl must have thought of their own schooldays as they heard the bell ringing on Wednesday morning, or prepared their children for school after two months' holidays.

One older boy was overheard to remark that he recalled getting his hair nicely brushed, and his collar and tie nicely arranged to such good effect that the teacher called him to the front of the class as an example of what a neatly dressed boy who took pride in his appearance should be.
But it was so disconcerting to him that he decided he wouldn't brush his hair again. It is not known if he kept his word.

Another recalled the momentous day when he first emerged from the short pants stage to wear trousers, and he took to all the back alleys for fear of attracting too much attention to his person.

But the early impressions of school-day remain throughout life; remembrance of some teachers who were outstanding examples of decorum, discipline and dress; of others who were gruff and liberal with the use of the cane or strap; of headmaster, whose word was law and the terror of those who did not "love the line."

Principal Hoyle and staff resumed their places, the only change being that Miss Mae Powell did not return, having been appointed to Olds high school. No information has yet been given out by the board as to the appointment of a teacher in her place, but it is reported that during the holidays efforts have been made to engage a male teacher to take her place.

Canadian Legion Campaign For Building Starts To-Day Selling Bonds $25 Each

the executive have decided to commence a vigorous campaign to sell $25 bonds towards the cost of the Legion club. Plans are under way to commence urge all to get behind this drive so that a commodious home may be secured for Legion activities.

Lieutenant Mattisson arrived from High River on Wednesday to take charge, and Lieut. Hewitt, of Toronto, is expected on Thursday night, succeeding Lieutenants Fitch and Frayn.

Lieut. Mattisson was in Vancouver for several years, in the advertising department of the Vancouver Province. He was a member of the Army there, and played in No. 3 Corps (Grandview) band. Later he trained in the S. A. College, Toronto. Coleman welcomes the new officers and wishes them success in their new field of labor.

EX-MAYOR AND WIFE ON VISIT HERE

James Moores, a former mayor of Coleman, and Mrs. Moores, of Creston, are visitors— with Mrs. Harry Parkinson for two or three days.
Creston is enjoying quite a building boom, and conditions are good.

Mr. Moores states he enjoys reading The Journal each week, and gets quite a "kick" from the reports of local activities, knowing the people so well from many years residence here.

PEOPLE OBSERVE STOP SIGNS

The risks of automobile collisions are greatly reduced by the erection of stop signs at street intersections.
Most motorists observe the injunction to "Stop," though there are some who foolishly disregard the warning signs, causing risks to others as well as themselves. On the whole, the majority of car drivers obey the signs.

DEATH OF RUDOLPH LYSKE

After an illness of some weeks, followed by an operation, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lysek, died on Thursday, Aug. 26, in the Miners' hospital. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, service being in Holy Ghost church, and burial in the Catholic cemetery. A large number of relatives and friends attended, and many beautiful floral tributes were sent. The parents have the sympathy of the community in the loss of their child.

The pall-bearers were Aloise Kry-swolt, Eddie Kryswolt, Matthew Kubica and Mike Kubica.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our friends for their kindness, words of sympathy and floral offerings in our late bereavement. Also the doctors and nurses of Coleman hospital, and those who so kindly loaned cars for the funeral.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Lysek, Coleman.

HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

LOANS INCREASE

Under date of Aug. 25, from Montreal, the executive director of the H.I.P. states:

"Honorable C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, today issued figures by provinces showing an increase for all Canada of 3,364 loans amounting to $1,406,588.38 over the June totals.
The total number of Home Improvement Plan loans reported up to yesterday was 21,467. The plan was started at the beginning of last November.

With the approach of Fall, it is anticipated that the loans will show a very marked increase. The provinces running neck to neck in loan totals.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT RE WATER RATES

At a special meeting of the town council it was decided to put the water rates back to where they were for a period of one year or more. The reason is, that there are expensive repairs to be made. New pipe has to be laid from the intake in the Old Man River to the pumps at the International mine, and after meeting Mr.
Kellock and Mr. Short, of Coleman Light & Water Co., Ltd., it may be that a water dam will have to be built, at a cost of $3,000 or more. In place of borrowing money as in former years, your council has decided on the adoption of the former rates, to pay for these improvements out of revenue. When these improvements have been made and paid for, the water rate will automatically be again lowered. The council is of the opinion that after these improvements have been effected, that the water users will receive a very substantial reduction in rates.

COLEMAN TOWN COUNCIL,
G. Pattinson, Mayor.

HE WAS AFRAID TO CROSS A STREET

Lost His Nerve After 12 Months' Agony

Suffering from acute rheumatism in both his knees—treated in hospital twice without result—Mr. Monro was so afflicted that he was afraid to cross a street—how readily this rheumatic sufferer will sympathize with this man. Read what he says:

"For 12 months, I suffered pain and misery with acute rheumatism in both my knees. Twice I was treated in hospital—but it was no use. I could not walk up or down stairs. I was afraid to cross the street, for I had lost all confidence in myself. Fourteen days ago, I started taking Kruschen Salts, and already I am a new man. I can walk with a smart step, go up and down stairs with ease, and cross the street with complete confidence. My rheumatism is getting better every day."

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid—often the cause of those aches and pains—and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channels.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside

By PATRICK SLATER
Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

CHAPTER X—Continued

The excitement of these goings-on brought a touch of color to Betty's cheeks, and, at times, the household again enjoyed the habit of human laughter.

"I may write you, Paddy," she told me as she left, "and give you the proper table manners for eating fish."

The mother reserved bulky letters for her homeward-bound young girl, but their contents were seldom matters for table discussion.

One evening, Mrs. Marshall chuckled as she bespoke our attention.

"Would you listen to this, you gentlemen of Mono?" said the lady, and she read:

"They always said the men in Toronto were good looking and fashionably dressed. Indeed, Ma, I don't think they are as good looking or as well dressed as our own men in Mono."

William Marshall looked up from his newspaper. "Would you convey to your daughter, mother," said he, "the thanks of Patrick and her father for those kind words."

We had a thronged time that fall and winter drawing the material for our new farm house. The plan was copied, of course, from the stout dwelling on the 4th line of Meacham, but the location of the house gave Mr. Marshall a good deal of thought. He often spoke to his wife about it, and one morning asked her to step out and look the situation over. Nancy's mind was occupied with the weekly batch of bread. She swung the upper section of the kitchen door open, and glanced out over the rolling farm land.

"Just suit yourself, William," said she, "but it anywhere... out there."

Mr. Marshall asked my opinion. "Let us build it, Mr. Marshall," said I, "so every room'll get a kiss of the sun; and a kitchen window should give the womenfolk a chance to be observing the road without leaving their dishes."

So the house faces south by southwest, and my old kitchen fronts the highway.

The new farm house brought a deal of comfort and a dash of pride to the members of the Marshall household. But we kept the family pride locked up behind the heavy, drawn curtains in the chilly parlor; and it stole around stealthily in there, dusting the Jacques and Hayes walnut haircloth sofa and the formal spring-bottomed chairs—all of which, now grown shabby, are in use to-day as a living memorial of honest workmanship—and being careful, of course, not to shake the spindly-legged little table that held the case of waxwork flowers Betty had made for us. The sad truth is that for generations the best room in an Ontario farm house stood closed up as a place of gloom, awaiting a death of a marriage feast.

But out in the great kitchen, the geraniums and fuchsias bloomed like love itself on their deep window sills; and neighbors dropped in aplenty to crack butternuts and shorten the long winter evenings with their chat. The religious doctrine of the day got a thorough going over. An itinerant book peddler had been pushing actively in Mono the sale of "The Great Red Dragon or The Master Key to Popery." I tasted the book myself, and its author impressed me as an ignorant and stupid person—but I let it go at that. However, when Paddy's feelings were not by to hurt, Romish idolatry got its what-for in that kitchen. There was a fair sprinkling of Scottish Presbyterians in the district, and stout defenders were there to uphold John Calvin's cruel doctrine of the election of the saints and the other four points of difference with the Methodist creed. The Baptists, too, were sticking their heads above water, but their fenced-off communion table retarded for a time the growth of that great sect in the pioneer timbered lands of Canada, and on the wide plains beyond the Mississippi. However, the issue joined between the "jacket writers" and "the baby sprinklers" raised heated arguments in the Marshall kitchen. For some reason, which I could not grasp, Mr. Marshall thought that the fact that water descended from the sky on our heads instead of rising up to incense our feet was a powerful argument in favor of infant baptism.

Doctrinal differences between the Mono Protestants may have been only skin-deep. Anyway I have always suspected as much since Isaac Cornish bolted the Methodist Connexion. An active member of the Quarterly Board, the good man had been a noisy opponent of the Presbyterian Doctrine. At a Sunday morning service in the local Methodist meeting house, Brother Cornish stamped down the aisle leading his numerous household to the family bench. "The Cornishes always came at like the cow's tail."

At that moment, Rev. Mr. Berry was shoulder deep in his extantive opening prayer. Despite the squeaking of boots, the minister waded right on through his discourse, only pausing to explain: "And, O Lord, here comes Isaac Cornish—late as usual!"

With an angry snort the brother wheeled right about face, and tramped his family out again—thus giving further news to tell. Thereafter the Cornishes attended the Presbyterian church to hear Rev. Mr. Lewis preach the doctrine of the election of the saints.

However that may have been, a man's politics in those days were usually all one wool and a yard wide. Nathaniel Carson and William Marshall were both liberal reformers, and though clear Grigs they called themselves—and they were faithful followers of George Brown and his Globe newspaper. When Mr. Carson got into the Marshall kitchen, he could cry: "Sanctuary! Bob O'Neil, pitigloo knew his manners better, of course, than to attack a visitor right in the bosom of the family. The dog begged to be excused from the smell of that man—and went outside to wait for him."

Those were the days of bitter politics in Canada, and of ugly sectional strife that left scars upon us. At the time the politicians and their quarrels loomed up large in the life of the Ontario countryside. And in judging the strength and temper of Canadian feeling, let us not forget the rock from which we were hewn and the pit from which we were dug. Those who are ignorant of the past are always fearful of the future. But you and I, who have fared over the rough roads, would be glad to go cheerily whistling down the smooth pavements of the morrow.

We usually had both sides of the arguments stoutly represented in that kitchen because Nancy Marshall was as hard-bolted and consistent a Conservative as her father before her, and in her amiable way, she scoffed at the Mono reformers, and at all the dogmas of their creed.

"Tut! tut! woman," her husband would tell her, "you belong to the Middle Ages."

He never got in the last word in my hearing. But, like a wise wife, Nancy was content at times to hold a watching brief. She would cast a supercilious glance over the Globe newspaper, now and again, but rarely to gather faggots to feed the fire of her contempt for the paper and its editor. For me, solid reading, she imported herself in The Leader, a sophisticated journal that supported the Tory side. It tickled Nancy Trensch's plink to find George Brown the editor of The Globe, spreading his personal ambitions in large splurges on his front page.

"Ah, ha!" she would tell the enemy, "I see Brown has had another invitation to a free meal up in Zorra... the conceit of the man!"

And in those days of personal journalism, the editor not only took his own horn, but he may have blown it with immodest vigor. Mrs. Marshall did not like George Brown—and that was that. She declared him to be a surly, bitter-minded scoundrel, who smiled at the trustful, childlike faith her William and his cronies had in the reliability of their party paper. One of them, a Scotsman in the village, had trouble with his eyes in the fall of 1856, and his good wife read him the weekly paper. One evening she was joking along diligently through the various news items in small type, and finally she read:

"A contract has been let for the construction of a candle over eight hundred yards long between the two ends of water, large enough to permit an eleven foot draft."

"Tut! tut! woman, it can no be!" the sick man exclaimed. "A candle... what length?"

"But it is here printed, Sandy," the wife declared, "I'll read it again."

"Well! well!" declared the astonished man, according to Mrs. Marshall. "... if it were no The Globe, I'd not believe it."

At that time George Brown had led the reformers of Upper Canada through abuses that called for remedy, and he had earned their trust and confidence. To make a successful reformer, a man must have an aggressive spirit and a biased turn of mind that lets in light on one side of the subject only. Such qualities usually make him a tiresome travelling companion on a long journey; but they are especially ordained by nature for the purpose at hand. Even the little chick has, for the moment, a hard crust on its tender beak to help it peep the shell.

There was a bitterly contested general election in Canada in the mid-winter of '57—with snow-blocked roads, open voting, free liquor and heads that needed mending. In those days, elections were rough fights like a lacrosse match with no referee on the field. In the nearby hamlet of Brampton, the supporters of the Tory candidate rushed in their voters on the opening of the poll, taking complete possession of the booth by storm, and thus kept the other side out quite effectively on the opening day. Such a forcible showing of strength was thought to have an effect on the public mind, and many votes, as you know, the like fallen leaves that drift with the prevailing wind. No official list of qualified electors had been prepared beforehand for use in the election. Having for the moment spent their available voting strength, the Conservatives set in, on the second day, to obstruct and retard the poll. Every Liberal who stuck his nose into the booth was subjected to a time-killing catcatch as to his qualifications.

Designs Root For Cows Following success attending the rubber sheep boot for curing foot rot, a similar device has been made for cows. The cow boot, designed for use in such diseases as founder, laminitis, foot, canker, and cleft hilt, enables the farmer to keep the feet in place and provides for continuous treatment.

AN OLD MAN'S CORONATION

When I went into London for the crowning of the King.

The crowd along the route was such I could not see a thing:

So I turned into an empty park and sat beneath a tree:

And in that leafy solitude a blackbird sang to me.

I sat upon a green park seat, deserted and alone.

Beneath a chestnut canopy—a king upon his throne.

A king, at least as happy as any other king;

And, royal-hearted as a boy, I heard the blackbird sing.

—Wilfred Gibson, in the London Observer.

Peculiar Frog In London Zoo Hears With Its Eyes

Visitors at the London Zoo are greatly attracted by a frog recently imported from Brazil. When stroked by his keeper he howls like a baby and tears run down his face.

When he inflates himself he looks like a rubber toy. To the attendants, however, his most arresting feature is that he has human eyes.

When he buries himself he leaves only his hooded eyes above ground, and the hoods sensitively pick up sound so that he knows when anything comes his way.—London Tit-Bits.

A Good Walker

In 1867, at the age of 28, Edward Payson Weston walked from Portland, Me., to Chicago—a distance of 1,234 miles. He left on October 29 and arrived on November 28. In 1867—40 years later—he made the same trip, leaving October 29 and arriving November 27, thus reducing his record.

Peculiar Frog In London Zoo Hears With Its Eyes

Visitors at the London Zoo are greatly attracted by a frog recently imported from Brazil. When stroked by his keeper he howls like a baby and tears run down his face.

When he inflates himself he looks like a rubber toy. To the attendants, however, his most arresting feature is that he has human eyes.

When he buries himself he leaves only his hooded eyes above ground, and the hoods sensitively pick up sound so that he knows when anything comes his way.—London Tit-Bits.

Something Worth Hearing

Music As Played By Gypsies In Hungary Is Music

Ed. Sullivan, in the New York Daily News says you have never heard the full-throated sob of a violin, until you have heard a gypsy make his violin cry on the banks of the Danube...

It is most thrilling to sunset, when purple shadows steal down from the hills of Buda and cover the river, and the only lights you see are the lights that etch the bridges that span the water separating Buda from Pest...

It is at dusk that the Gypsies, seen to play most appealingly and their bands range from ten to forty pieces...

None of these gypsy musicians can read a note of music, or at least so the legend goes, but they play any selection you request...

Certain it is that they have no music in front of them, and play from memory...

Until you have heard these strangled bands play their haunting Trizgane melodies, life has changed for you of something very beautiful...

The breezes that have sighed across Danube plains for ever and a day sigh again as these violins and cellos come to life, and their music borrows the color of blue skies and orange sunsets...

You sit in the huge outdoor garden, gravely sipping your coffee and as the music throbs, you hear again the clattering hoofs of Attila the Hun stampeding down the wind...

Or fancy that once again the Turkish armies are storming the hills of Buda, their curved blades flashing in the cold moonlight.

The night life of Budapest is acclaimed all over Europe, yet apart from these magnificent gypsy bands you and the night life pretty dull...

Most of the clubs here, with rare stupidity, forfeit the flavor of their own picturesque country in an attempt to copy Broadway night clubs...

They feature jazz bands on the United States order, and you marvel at the incongruity of native Hungarian musicians playing American songs in this setting.

"Thank you," responded the poet. "I suppose I shall receive remuneration according to your usual tariff?"

"Tariff? My good man, poetry is on the free list."

NEW PICTURES OF WAR IN CHINA

AN OLD MAN'S CORONATION

When I went into London for the crowning of the King.

The crowd along the route was such I could not see a thing:

So I turned into an empty park and sat beneath a tree:

And in that leafy solitude a blackbird sang to me.

I sat upon a green park seat, deserted and alone.

Beneath a chestnut canopy—a king upon his throne.

A king, at least as happy as any other king;

And, royal-hearted as a boy, I heard the blackbird sing.

NOTES ON OUR TRAVELS

(conclusion)

Our last instalment concluded with the arrival in Halifax of the special train conveying the Press party, concluding delightfully the journey on the Dominion Atlantic Railway from Digby. The editors and their wives were quickly assigned to the Lord Nelson and the Nova Scotian hotels, splendid buildings owned respectively by the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways.

It was our good fortune to be quartered at the Lord Nelson, where all sessions of the convention were held. In a commodious room over Halifax Public Gardens we enjoyed a fine view of the city. The convention opened sharp on time the next morning, Aug. 12, and there were present publishers from every province of the Dominion, Alberta's contingent numbering almost a dozen. The extreme far west, Vancouver Island, was not represented this year, though usually Hugh Savage, of Cowichan, attends Newfoundland as an usual representative by Mr. Barrett, publisher of the Western Star, of Curling. His brother at one time, about 1921, was a partner with Ernest F. Gare, formerly of the Coleman Journal.

The details of the convention would not be of particular interest to our readers, except that they indicated the desire on the part of weekly editors throughout the Dominion to acquire further knowledge to enable them the better to serve their respective communities. Professor Casey, of Ottawa University, widely known on the American continent as professor of journalism, and who has trained many young men who have achieved merit in the newspaper world, was an outstanding speaker, bringing some valuable ideas before the convention. So great was the demand for competent young men in the newspaper field, that of his class of nearly one hundred, there was not sufficient to fill the demand by newspaper offices.

A striking contrast to the attitude of Premier Angus Macdonald and Alberta's premier to the newspaper fraternity was the cordial reception accorded the delegates, the government of Nova Scotia tendering a banquet in the Lord Nelson hotel, at which his cabinet ministers were present, and at which the premier presided, his address being broadcast over a national network, as well as the address of Professor Casey, guest speaker of the evening. Over 200 attended the banquet, and every lady was presented with a framed picture bearing a view of Nova Scotia, while the men were presented with certificates in the Order of Good Cheer, which will be treasured as mementoes of a visit to that hospitable province.

At the request of friends in Coleman, the writer called on former Colemanites, including Mr. McKeagan, at one time in the International Co. offices here, now with the Compensation Board in Nova Scotia. Another former Colemanite, also at one time with the International Co., whom we met, was Mrs. N. I. Bosworth, niece of Lieutenant-Governor Irwin. She resides at Government House, as private secretary to her uncle, and very graciously she came down to the station on the morning of our departure and enjoyed a fifteen-minute chat, enquiring after her old friends in Coleman and evincing keen interest in the activities of her old friends here. Mrs. Scott, who will be remembered as the wife of the late John Scott, master mechanic for many years at International Co., was reported to be quite ill, therefore we were unable to visit her.

Another old friend whom we met was Colin G. Groff, former publicity commissioner in this province, now with the Nova Scotia department of agriculture. He, with his wife, are living in Halifax, and were eager to know all about conditions in Alberta and the present political turmoil.

It was a pleasure to meet these former Albertans, and they were just as pleased to get a close-up of this tumultuous province.

It was on Sunday morning, Aug. 14, at 8.30, that many of the convention party left on the Ocean Limited of the Canadian National Railways for Montreal. It was a very pleasant journey through New Brunswick, and at Moncton we endeavored to get in touch with "Jimmy" Cullen, recently transferred east from the Bank of Commerce here. We later found that he had been transferred from Moncton to Halifax, and our trains must have passed each other. By the time darkness fell we were in the province of Quebec, and some of the party left the train at 3 a.m., on arrival at Pt. Levis, opposite Quebec City, to visit there for a day or two, while the remainder continued the journey to Montreal, which was reached at 8 a.m. on Monday morning.

Here the party scattered, some returning by boat to Toronto, others going to their homes in Quebec province, while we who were going west spent the day viewing some of the historic shrines in the city of Montreal, including the famous Notre Dame cathedral, the Chateau de Ramzay, the Place D'Armes, and the famous St. James Street, where many of Mr. Alherhart's pet aversions in the persons of the "Fifty Big Shots" carry on their business. We tried to induce our good wife to take a ride up Mount Royal in one of the horse-drawn "landaus" which are an interesting sight in the city, the reason for their continued use being that no automobiles are allowed in Mount Royal Park. You either walk or ride in one of these conveyances of earlier days. But with her usual modesty she declined to ride in such a conspicuous carriage, and was content to take a photograph of one.

It is said the world is not large after all, and of this we were reminded as we arrived in Montreal station in the evening to leave for the west. Here we ran almost head on to Mrs. J. A. McDonald, who was on her way to visit her old home in Cape Breton Island, N.S., just five minutes prior to her departure east. Then a few minutes later we met Miss Prue Borden, who had returned the previous day from eighteen months residence in London, Eng., and who was leaving for Boston prior to coming home to Coleman. She was as surprised as we were, and after hurried introductions to some friends with whom she had journeyed across the Atlantic, we departed on C.P.R. train No. 7, formerly known as the "Train Canada," headed for the brisk air of the west, which was looked forward to after the humid atmosphere of the east.

A very pleasant journey followed, air-conditioning adding to the comforts of rail travelling, and a daylight trip around the north shore of Lake Superior provided plenty of interest. It might be said that railroad traveling in Canada offers complete relaxation, and many American vacationists on the train unhesitatingly complimented the C.P.R. on their equipment and service. Into the evening the train sped on, over westward, reaching Fort William at 10.30 p.m., about 27 hours after leaving Montreal. Here beautifully illuminated flower gardens seem to extend a welcome, and after a 15-minute stop the "All Aboard" is heard and we are off for Winnipeg, the gateway of the west.

From there the run through Manitoba passes pleasantly, but it is when one journeys through Saskatchewan that the grim reality is impressed on one how dependant is agriculture on weather conditions. It cannot but arouse sympathetic feelings for the farmers who have bravely carried on for several years under the most adverse conditions, and makes one realize the necessity of those in more favored provinces helping them over hard times.

The last stage of our journey commences at Regina, which we leave in the evening, and on Thursday morning, the third morning after leaving Montreal, we awaken in Lethbridge and realize that we are practically on our own doorstep. A day is spent there visiting a number of friends and the friendly Lethbridge Herald, and early next morning we step onto the railway platform at Coleman, where the brisk mountain air greets us as a decided contrast to that of the Eastern provinces.

It was a most pleasant interlude from our usual tasks. Visiting other provinces brings home to one that only by co-operation can Canada achieve greatness as a nation; that the interests of each province are inter-dependent, and that it would be a splendid lesson for many who are so misguided that they believe any one province can be a law unto itself, if they obtained a more comprehensive outlook on Dominion affairs. The spirit which motivated the Fathers of Confederation must be upheld; there must be give and take between the various provinces, as there must be between the self-governing Dominions of the Empire.

Sudden Death of E. Coleman Lady

Came From Europe Two Months Ago With Family—In Cheerful Mood Shortly Before Death

Death came in rather a tragic manner to Zuzanna Lipovska, 44 years, wife of Louis Lipovski, on Tuesday night at 12.15. Though not in the best of health since her arrival here two months ago from Czechoslovakia, she had been joking with her family before retiring, and shortly after complained of feeling ill. Dr. Borden was hastily summoned, but death quickly followed. Her husband, Louis Lipovski, has lived here for some time, working as a carpenter and saving up so that he was eventually able to bring his family here. Those left to mourn their mother's death are a son aged 20 years and two daughters aged 17 and 15 years.

The funeral will be held on Sunday, service at Holy Ghost church at 2.30 p.m.

Frank Berringham, nominated by the Alberta Elks association, has received his certificate as district deputy grand exalted ruler for district No. 2 from grand exalted ruler P. W. Pound, and is now in office. Thirteen were given certificates in the province.

Lord Shaughnessy and his son, the Hon. William, are on a tour of the west, and will come through Coleman on Friday afternoon on Train 12. They left Montreal on Aug. 16, visiting Winnipeg, Banff and Victoria. A mine near Lethbridge named after Lord Shaughnessy is owned by him. WEEKLY SPORTS REVIEW

LETHBRIDGE CORONETS DISAPPOINTMENT FANS

Lethbridge Coronets, ladies' softball team, showed poor sportsmanship on Sunday when they failed to make their scheduled appearance at the local ball park to play the Co-Eds. Wodec Kubica stated he had received a telegram during the week from the manager of the Coronets stating that his team would be on hand at Coleman on Sunday. The local team had the game widely advertised on the strength of this information, only to be disappointed at the last minute.

Approximately two hundred fans were present at the ball park at scheduled time, as well as the Co-Eds, waiting on the Lethbridge team's arrival, since the latter had sent no word stating that they would not arrive. Mr. Kubica then phoned to station CIOC at Lethbridge in an attempt to find out if the team were on their way, but could not get any satisfactory information. This is not the first time a Lethbridge team has played this same thing on the Co-Eds. On one occasion the Co-Eds had gone to the expense of preparing a supper for the visitors as well as making arrangements pertaining to the game, only to have the Lethbridge team stay at home without taking the trouble to notify the local team that they were not coming.

An Insurance Policy

Writers in some of the Eastern Canadian publications are spilling a lot of ink on the subject of conditions in the prairie provinces and are advocating drastic measures, even to the extent of abandonment of the land to its original inhabitants, the gophers and the Indians.

In some articles, quite patently written by authors not fully conversant with the situation, it is suggested that the soil has been robbed of its fertility—is played out, in fact, and is no longer capable of producing crops even if an abundance of moisture were available.

The people on the ground, the farmers and businessmen resident in the prairie provinces, are not likely to be stampeded by any such suggestion. They know better. They are fully aware that, given the essential moisture at the right time, the prairies are capable of producing quality grain in great abundance and this is being demonstrated to the world in the Province of Manitoba and in comparatively small areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta this season.

The findings of Captain Palliser in his report on the entire area to the British government, 1856 to 1860, have been confirmed in surveys made by the Dominion Forestry Service and the Searle Grain Company, the latter based on observations and records over periods ranging up to 60 years. These reports demonstrate that what Palliser designated as the "semi arid" belt, taking in roughly the open prairie areas of southern Saskatchewan, southern Alberta and southwestern Manitoba, have yielded 13.25 bushels per acre on a long time average from eleven million acres in wheat on an average precipitation of 10.38 inches per annum, exclusive of snowfall, compared with an average yield of 19 bushels an acre in what Palliser termed the more northerly "fertile" belt on an average rainfall of 12.63 inches over nine million acres seeded to wheat.

These territories and figures do not include what now may be regarded as a definitely arid area in which four million acres have been seeded to wheat.

Excluding the latter the long period records show that in the so-called semi arid belt a crop failure from drought may be expected on an average of one year in four and in the fertile belt an average of one failure in nine years.

As pointed out by Major H. G. L. Strange in an article in "Canadian Business" these crop failure years do not occur with mathematical regularity but, particularly in this case in the semi arid belt, sometimes in cycles of two, three or even more years. This year marks the culmination of drought severity and crop loss he does not go into the causes of the cumulative drought of the past few years, but there can be little doubt that its severity has been aggravated by cultivation methods over a period of years which have involved the drainage of the multiplicity of sloughs which in former years dotted even the semi arid area.

What has happened is that the earlier settlers found that they could, at least in good years, harvest very large yields in the proximity of the sloughs and came to the conclusion that areas covered by water were so much waste land which, if drained, could be made to yield heavy crops. Accordingly all over the prairies these sloughs were drained off and the land beneath these moisture nurseries was converted into wheat fields.

Fortunately what man has done can be undone, though it may be a long and painful process. The country to-day faces the problem of restoring these natural basins so that they, in the course of natural processes, may transpire moisture to the atmosphere and aid in the formation of rain clouds. Some attention is being given to this phase of the problem by the P.F.R.A. which, as Major Strange says, is "settling about the problem in a vigorous and effective fashion."

This work, however, does not solve the whole problem for the semi arid area or even the fertile area which, according to statistics, are subject to crop failures in every four and nine years respectively. The problem for the farmers in these recurring dry years can only be successfully solved by making available large quantities of water which can be stored and drawn upon when needed in the form of irrigation projects.

Irrigation projects, large or small, wherever feasible must be resorted to as a supplemental to the restoration of shallow waters in natural basins as an insurance policy against losses in future drought years whether they come singly or in cycles.

Such an insurance policy put into effect to its maximum degree and within the bounds of economic feasibility will place agriculture on the prairies on a more assured basis, provide work for many who need it, eliminate dead-loss idle expenditure and do away with all talk of abandonment of land, except for a very small area which never should have been broken by the plow.

Old Controversy Revived

No One Knows How Pepps Pronounced His Name

The old controversy over the pronunciation of the name of Pepps has been revived once more in the correspondence columns of the London Observer. Ought it to be Pepps, or Peppis, or Peps? One correspondent has even discovered a contemporary version in which it is made to rhyme with "lips" but this may, of course, have been only poetic license.

No one can answer the question definitely now, at least no one can adduce proof positive. Indeed it must have been a problem to Pepps himself, for they spell his name in no less than seventy different ways and since the spelling of proper names was apt to be somewhat phonetic in those days, this seems to indicate some difference of opinion as to its pronunciation.

It is odd that he, who told us in such a wealth of detail about himself should have left this point to be disputed.—Christian Science Monitor.

Requirements Not Known

Thatcher Wheat May Be Obtained For Drought Area Farms

Efforts are being made by the Saskatchewan Government to obtain as much Thatcher wheat as possible for distribution next spring to farmers in the drought area. Hon. George Spence, acting minister of agriculture, recently stated that the government hoped to obtain between one-half and one million bushels of this variety of wheat through the Canadian wheat board. Additional supplies of other early maturing and rust resisting varieties of wheat will also be purchased although the total seed requirements for next spring are not yet known.

Keep The Best

Shopkeepers In Scotland Reluctant To Part With Wares

In replying to the American complaint that London shopkeepers leave customers to sell the goods to themselves, the columnist of the Morning Post declares that Scotch shopkeepers are even more reluctant to part with their wares. For example:

"Some months ago a friend of mine was going to Carnoustie. He had left his watch at Perth to be mended, and sallied forth to buy a cheap substitute. He found a wet shop, kept by a quaint little Scot, and the following dialogue ensued: 'I want a cheap watch.' 'How cheap?'

"The cheapest you have.' 'There's one I can give you for five shillins. My cousin's had the like of it for two years, and it still keeps good time.' 'But it's too large for my pocket.' 'Weel, there's a smaller one, but it's dear—7s. 6d.'

"I don't like the pattern on the back.' 'Here's a bonnie wee watch, but it's terribly expensive—9s. 6d. 'I'll take it.' 'As the vendor was handing out the change, he said: 'Of course I've a far better watch than that, but it costs too much—18s., and nobody'll buy it, so I just keep it for swank!'

—Charlottetown Guardian.

Curious Race Incident

Winner Refused To Appear Wrong Decision Of Judge

Accidents happen even on the best-regulated racecourses, and one of the most curious incidents in the history of the turf occurred at Goodwood.

The judge was so intent upon watching the struggle between two leading horses, running neck and neck, that he failed to notice another slipping ahead of them on the other side of the track.

The third horse past the winning-post well in front of the other two but the judge sent up the number of the second horse as winner, leaving the Duke of Richmond's Danzette unplaced in a race it had won by three lengths.

The Duke refused to appeal, telling the repentant judge, "I have always heard that justice is blind: Now I know it." What Danzette's backers thought is unrecorded.—News of the World.

Promises To Return

"Next year we will come to America every two weeks with new helium-inflated Zeppelins", Captain Max Pruss, commander of the airship Hindenburg, said as he planned to leave the New York Medical Centre to return to his home in Germany. It was his first interview since he and his ship went down in flames at Lakehurst, N.J., three months ago.

Want Shorter Name

Citizens of William Williams County, a little community a mile south of Brazil, India, are tired of saying and writing the name of the place where they live. It's too long. It takes too much breath and too much ink, they complain. So they have Swine Breeders' Association. The proposed petitions bearing the community's name be changed to "Billville."

GIRL SETS NEW RECORD DESPITE INJURY

A seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Dorothy Odum, set a new British high-jump record for women at the A.A.A. championships in London when she cleared 5 feet 4 and 1/4 inches. Two days before the event she injured one of her arms and it was twice its normal size when she broke her own record of 5 feet 4 inches.

Sheep and swine shows will be held at Saskatoon on October 27, 28 and 29, and at Regina on November 2, 3 and 4, it has been decided by directors of the Saskatchewan Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association. The community's game be changed to "Billville."

FRUITS WITH PECTIN REQUIRED FOR JELLY

Are your jelly glasses all filled yet? If not, this is the time to get busy. Jelly and tomat are used not only at breakfast time, but are very popular for teas and lunches. There were must be some jelly for jelly-rolls and layer-cakes this winter.

Acid and pectin are the two essentials in making jelly. If a fruit lacks either of these, it is impossible to make jelly. If pectin is lacking, some commercial pectin or fruit that is rich in pectin can be added. If acid is lacking an acid fruit should be used. Apples are rich in both acid and pectin and for this reason they are the basis of many of our jellies. Our grandmothers knew this and they often combined apples with other fruits in making jelly.

A small cotton bag is used for draining off the juice. An empty 20-ounce sugar sack makes a convenient sizer. Do not squeeze the jelly-bag while draining, as this causes cloudy jelly. Allow the bag to drain overnight, and if the fruit is rich in pectin, a second extraction can be made.

Most of the pectin is found in the peelings and cores of the fruit. Do not peel the fruit, but cut into pieces, so that the cores are exposed. Excellent jelly can be extracted easily. Excellent jelly can be made from the peelings and cores of apples which have been left when a big dish of apples has been prepared for cooking. This is an excellent way of re-using the jelly supply in the winter.

The length of boiling is very important but rather hard to determine. If overcooked, the jelly is tough and leathery, but if undercooked the jelly does not set. When the boiling is nearly completed, a little can be tried on a cold saucer. The test that is most satisfactory is called the "two-drop" test. Lift some of the liquid on a spoon and watch as it runs back into the pan. At first it seems quite watery, but as the boiling is completed, two drops form side by side on the edge of the spoon.

The jars do not need to be sealed airtight for jelly. The large amount of sugar present acts as a preservative. The jelly should be covered with paraffin and then a paper fastened over the top, to keep out the dust.

APPLE SYRUP FOR HOT Cakes

Wash and stem McIntosh apples. Put on to boil slowly, using as little water as possible. When thoroughly cooked, let drain through jelly bag. Return the juice to the kettle and boil quickly until condensed to a thin syrup consistency, or until a light skim of jelly forms on top. Skim this off and add very gradually sufficient sugar to suit taste. Do not let the syrup boil after adding the sugar. This prevents the syrup becoming jelly. Preserve the sugar by stirring. Put in hot sterilized jars as for preserved fruit.

The Weekly Newspaper

One Of The Most Potent And Uplifting Factors In Our Existence

Turning from the city newspapers to the small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk is like stepping from the slums, full of vice into an old-fashioned garden sweet with lavender and thyme, and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of the big dailies are so full of murder, thievery, immorality and selfishness that the better news obscured by glaring shattering of the Decalogue. One feels the papers aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the little towns around us, one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church items, the happy social gatherings of the people, farmers' items and all the thousand and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this broad country of ours.

Scandals are rarely published in the country newspapers, but if it so happens that decency demands it, the uglier details are omitted, or given a kindly touch that is widely different from the unfeeling publicity of the city press. The offenders may be our neighbors or people we have rubbed elbows with all our lives. They are real human beings to their own people, while to the great city dailies they are merely grains of a sort that are ground out hourly in their news mills.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our natural existence.—Boston Monitor.

The Official Title

Burma Is Now Overseas Territory Of The Crown

Citizens of Burma have been worrying themselves as to what the exact designation of their country should be since it was separated from India, observes the Indian Press Union.

No one dared to call it a colony because that would savor too little of democracy. The word "Kingdom" was rejected because it might be misleading, while the designation "Protectorate" is not now permissible. The problem has been solved by the officials in London, who now designate Burma as "Overseas Territory of the Crown." As this is a long title, it is understood that the letters O.T.C. will be used when alluding to Burma.—Windsor Star.

Canada's Coal Production

The production of coal in Canada during June amounted to 1,063,885 tons as compared with 1,097,700 tons in the same month of last year. In Saskatchewan, the production amounted to 22,483 tons, a decrease of almost 4,000 tons from the output in June, 1936.

The average man's lungs contain about five quarts of air.

British Merchant Marine

Fewer British Merchant Vessels Afloat Than In 1914

Establishment of a ministry of marine is advocated by Paymaster-Lieutenant-Commander E. C. Talbot. Both in a foreword to his reference book "Merchant Ships, 1937."

Declaring there were 1,000 fewer British merchant vessels afloat today than in 1914 and the average size of ships was greater, he said, "in times of national emergency it is numbers that count, not size, and even with our greater numbers during the war we were brought to within a few weeks of starvation."

He said the empire link across the Pacific was almost broken. Japan and United States ships were driving British ships from the seas and lifting cargoes under British noses. State assistance and subsidies might be pernicious in principle but when rivals were using them Great Britain must take up similar weapons.

"Unless a ministry of marine is instituted without delay, Britain will be in a bad way, he concluded. "If it were necessary to control British shipping in time of war, it is equally necessary to control it in times of peace or economic war, and there need be no fear of unjust interference with the legitimate trading aspirations of individual companies."

Russia Not Bound By Non-Aggression Pact To Give Help To China

Nanking.—The Chinese government announced conclusion of a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union which, however, does not bind Russia to come to China's aid against Japanese aggression.

The announcement indicated that as it concerns China's present conflict with Japan the treaty is only a gesture of Russian sympathy and moral support.

The treaty binds each signatory not to aid in any way a third party committing aggression against the other signatory but makes no pledge of assistance against the aggressor.

The Nanking foreign office, in a communique, referred to Japan as "China's aggressor" but said if Japan would change her national policy China would be glad to conclude a similar non-aggression pact with her.

The communique said "great hopes are entertained" concerning the agreement with Moscow, adding that it might "prove a turning point for general improvement of the far eastern situation."

Foreign authorities found nothing in the official version of the new treaty to support any expectation of Russian material or military support for China against Japan.

(Students of international affairs, however, have noted that Japan's steady expansion on the Asiatic continent, pressing against Russia as well as against China, although in less degree, has steadily drawn China and the Soviet Union closer together since 1931.)

Royal Commission On Grain

May Have Report Ready For Government During Fall

Quebec.—A possibility that Canada's royal commission on grain would have a report prepared for the Dominion government by the autumn was expressed by Hon. J. L. Ralston, former minister of national defence and commission attorney, on his arrival on the liner Empress of Britain.

Returning from the commission's overseas session, Col. Ralston said a sitting would be held in Winnipeg this month with probably a final one at Ottawa afterwards.

Chinese Ships Blocked

But Japanese Order Exempts Shipping Of Other Nations

Tokyo.—Japan has ordered a blockade of all Chinese official and private shipping on the Chinese coast, the Domei (Japanese) News agency said. The blockade was proclaimed by Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese third fleet in Chinese waters, effective at once.

The blockade order included all Chinese shipping but specifically exempted shipping of other nations.

Canadian West Should Have Rain Next Year Opinion Of Scientist

Washington.—If cyclic changes in weather which have prevailed in the past continue, Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, said there should be wetter weather next year in the Canadian west.

The Smithsonian secretary, who has specialized in observations and delicate measurements of solar radiation and its effects on earthly weather for many years, declared that two approaches to the problem led him to the same conclusion regarding weather in that area.

"A lengthy study of the levels of water in the Great Lakes shows a cyclic change varying over a period of 46 years," he said. "My impression is that the lakes will begin to recover from a low level in 1939, which would mean that precipitation in the area draining into them should increase in 1939."

On the other hand, he added, a study of weather records from a large number of stations for the past 70 to 80 years revealed a 23-year and 46-year variation in precipitation "and this study also leads me to the same impression that a recovery from dry conditions in the northwest Canadian area should begin in 1938."

Dr. Abbot added that his predictions "cannot yet be regarded as the basis for establishing specific programs, but they do indicate in general the character of weather conditions which should prevail." 2218

No News From Outside

Foreign Residents Of Peking Shut Off From World

Peking.—Foreign residents of Peking feared all contact with the outside world was about to be shut off except through Japanese sources and under Japanese surveillance.

A squad of 20 Japanese plainclothesmen invaded the central post office preparatory, it was believed, to establish a censorship of the mails.

The Peking Chronicle, a British-owned daily newspaper favorable to the Nanking government, was closed by police who raided and occupied its offices.

Suspension of The Chronicle left the former capital's foreign community with no sources of outside news except the pro-Japanese Peking Daily News and a small French newspaper, Journal de Peking.

The Japanese also have taken over the radio broadcasting station of the Chinese ministry of communications.

Manitoba's Wheat Crop

Expected To Be The Largest In Thirteen Years

Winnipeg.—Manitoba is expected to yield 53,000,000 bushels of wheat according to returns released by provincial department of agriculture.

From estimates made of threshing yields recorded the department estimated the province would probably reap in addition to the 33,000,000 bushels of wheat, 44,000,000 bushels of oats and 37,000,000 bushels of barley.

Should wheat production reach the estimated 53,000,000 bushels it would be the largest crop in the province in more than 13 years and top the 1928 production by nearly 500,000 bushels. The 10-year average for wheat produced in Manitoba is 34,832,400 bushels.

Trouble On Battleship

Publication Of Findings Of Naval Board Of Inquiry

London.—Existence of trouble aboard the battleship Warspite on June 30 was revealed for the first time with publication of the findings of a naval court of inquiry.

The court recommended removal of 9 or 10 ratings from the Warspite to other warships, the discharge of three ratings from the navy and that three officers of the Warspite be relieved of their appointments.

No details of the trouble were made public except that it was due to a misunderstanding concerning weekend leave while the warship was at Portsmouth. It was understood the situation arising from a breach of discipline was not handled in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Over Eight Millions Loaned

Since Home Improvement Plan Went Into Effect Last November

Ottawa.—Since the home improvement loan plan went into operation last November loans aggregating $8,249,685 have been made under it. The money has gone for the repair and improvement of houses in all parts of Canada.

Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance issued figures on the loans approved up to August 23. The total number of loans was 21,647. The average size of the loans to date is $384.

Alberta and British Columbia are running neck-and-neck in loan totals. British Columbia appreciably ahead in number of loans and very slightly ahead in amount.

United States Intends To Defend Rights And Privileges In the Orient

Report Is Denied

No Revolt In Salvation Army States Chief Of Staff

London.—Writing in the "War Cry," official organ of the Salvation Army, John MacMillan, chief of staff, denied published reports that ranking officers of the army threatened to depose their leader, General Evangeline C. Booth, if she declined to retire next year.

Commissioner MacMillan, who came from Canada to assume that post earlier this year, declared that during recent weeks "several newspapers have published statements which suggest dissatisfaction exists among the officers of the Salvation Army."

"The latest of these, which appears in a London morning newspaper, speaks of a 'revolt' among some of the leading officers and makes other equally false statements," he added.

"Absolutely no evidence exists of any such state of affairs in the army in any part of the world..." The Daily Herald said leading officers were uneasy over the "apparent reluctance" of General Booth to retire when she reached the age of 73 on Christmas day, 1938. It added officers would summon the high council of the army into session to ouster her, as it did her brother, the late General Bramwell Booth, if she did not step out voluntarily.

General Bramwell Booth was ousted in 1929 on the grounds that his physical condition did not permit him to continue in his high office. The regulation fixing 73 as the retirement age "for the time being" was established by General Edward J. Higgins, General Evangeline Booth's predecessor.

Field Crops Ruined

First Hail Loss Suffered At White Court, Alberta

White Court, Alta.—First hail losses in White Court district within memory of settlers followed a heavy storm that battered gardens into the ground and ruined field crops 100 per cent. Little grain had been cut. Mink Creek area, best in the district, where bumper crops were in prospect, is a complete loss.

Many farmers in a 10-mile strip of country are completely halled out. Preceded by high winds, the storm lasted about 15 minutes, and hail fell like marbles or larger. Windows were broken and roofs punctured. Berry pickers, caught in the open, are showing bruises, and horses in the fields developed big lumps where the hail hit them.

(White Court is 120 miles northwest of Edmonton.)

Executions In Russia

Purge Of Anti-Soviet Wreckers In Leningrad Province

Moscow.—A purge of "anti-Soviet wreckers" spread in Leningrad province, with seven collective farm officials going on trial for sabotage. All confessed to attempts to discredit Soviet collective farming in order to restore capitalism.

Nine others were executed as "terrorists" after trial, the newspaper Leningradskaya Pravda reported.

Gen. Franco Warned To Cease Attacks On Ships In Mediterranean

London.—Great Britain served notice on insurgent General Franco her patience over attacks on Mediterranean shipping has reached the breaking point.

Great Britain, informed sources predicted, will endorse a warning by Turkey that Turkish warships will sink submarines that enter Turkish waters in further attacks on Spanish and other shipping off the Dardanelles.

Russia was expected to adopt the same stand. Molevsky's Kagan, her neutrality representative, declared the sinkings were "banditry and piracy on the part of Franco and his Italians."

A British note to Franco, transmitted through Ambassador Sir Henry G. Chilton, at Hendaye, Washington.—The United States has informed China and Japan that, regardless of their conduct, this country intends to maintain all its rights and privileges in the Orient.

A formal note notified both powers they will be held strictly accountable if American citizens are injured, or American property damaged, as the result of their military operations in China.

Making this known at his daily press conference, Secretary Hull also announced American's diplomatic representatives would be notified of somewhat uncertain confirmation of Japan's intent to blockade Chinese ports.

Hull obviously had the impression the blockade was to apply to Chinese shipping only, leaving foreign vessels unharmed. The department's despatches were indefinite on that point and the secretary called for additional information.

On this point may hinge important developments, for a blockade of foreign shipping might be construed as an act of war calling for the imposition of the United States neutrality act, which forbids shipping of arms, ammunition and other articles to belligerents.

Reserves Are Adequate

Canadian Chartered Banks Have Plenty Of Money To Loan

Ottawa.—Because Canadian chartered banks have adequate reserves of money for loaning, they do not need to borrow from the Bank of Canada, hence the rediscount rate of that bank will remain at 2½ per cent, as it has from the beginning. That is the Bank of Canada will not follow the federal reserve banks of the U.S. in lowering the rediscount rate from one and ½ to one per cent.

United States banks have a huge volume of deposit money on hand on which they pay little interest, or lower rates than in Canada as on savings and on current deposits. As a result, the commercial loan rate in the U.S. is now down to 4½ to six per cent, compared to five to six and ½ per cent in Canada.

The U.S. banks now will pay one per cent on the funds they borrow from the federal reserve banks for re-lending, but this situation does not exist in Canada where ½ chartered banks reserves are sufficient for the purpose.

Had Dangerous Ride

Baby Carried Eight Miles On Running Board Of Car

Cacouna, Que.—Carried away on the running board of her father's motor car, 20-month-old Odette Letourneau clung to her perch while her father drove eight miles over bumpy roads and her mother pursued them in a neighbor's car.

Odette climbed onto the running board unnoticed by her father, who started away with the child. The car had gone some distance before Mrs. Letourneau saw the girl.

Past the farms outside this town, 124 miles below Quebec, Letourneau sped with the human cargo hanging on. Amazed farmers didn't recover speech in time for the father to hear their cries. After eight miles, the car in which Mrs. Letourneau was driving caught up.

The baby was unhurt.

France, threatened reprisals. The bluntly worded protest warned: "If there is any repetition of these attacks the British government must reserve to themselves the right to take such action as the occasion demands."

The danger to Britain's maritime interest in the Mediterranean, her life-line India and the far east, was brought to focus again by the 15th recent attack on a British merchantman.

The master of the Greek tanker Romford, sailing under the British flag, reported to harbor authorities at Piraeus, Greece, his ship was attacked about 20 miles off Barcelona. He dropped an unidentified aeroplane radium five bombs within 30 yards of the Romford but did no damage. Earlier in the week the British freighter Noemi Julia was attacked.

Highways Investigation Brings Rather Startling Facts Into Public Spotlight

(By C. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Aug. 30.—Remarkable methods employed by the government and its key employees in construction and administration of Alberta highways were disclosed last week in Edmonton during the first week's sittings of the royal commission investigating road work in the province.

The investigation, being presided over by Mr. Justice H. W. Lunn, is continuing and expected to conclude this week. It has special reference to construction of the Edmonton-Wetaskin and Edmonton-Jasper highways last year.

Fact that the province forfeited $162,000 of a federal highway-building grant last year, because Premier William Aberhart and Public Works Minister, W. A. Fallow did not inform their subordinates of the terms of the federal-provincial agreement until four months of the construction season had passed, was a highlight of the evidence during the past week.

The premier and Mr. Fallow, it was testified, had been informed of the terms of the agreement early in the year—the agreement by which 50 per cent of the men employed on road construction were to be recruited from among relief recipients. The dominion was contributing a grant of $403,000 to be expended, dollar-for-dollar with the provincial expenditures, on highways where that proportion of relief employment was maintained.

Construction work started in April, but it was the end of July before the deputy minister or the highway commissioner in the department of public works learned about the requirement of 50 per cent relief labor in order to qualify for the grant.

When they finally did hear about it, they learned it only from Ottawa directly rather than from their superiors in the government.

By that time much of the construction work had been completed without fulfillment of the terms of the Ottawa agreement regarding relief labor. When the province claimed its grant, those sections of the highway, provincial officials could write in only "Figures not yet available" in the space provided for a certificate assuring Ottawa that 50 per cent of the workers had been taken from relief lists. The dominion finally began to demand figures.

Ottawa compromised by agreeing that the full grant would be paid if half the men employed on the whole highway program during the season were shown to have been taken from relief lists. The provincial government tried to flood the work camps with men who had been on relief. Tried changing crews completely every two weeks—every week in some cases—so as to get as many relief recipients as possible into the payroll records.

But the start was too late. By the end of the season only 25 per cent of the men who had been employed came within the terms of the provincial dominion agreement, instead of the 50 per cent required and instead of the 100 per cent which the premier was quoted as having advocated in the Ottawa conference before the season opened.

Instead of handing over $403,000 to the province, the dominion withheld $162,000 of it. And many men on relief, for whom the dominion had intended employment, had gone without work.

In addition to losing that part of the grant, the province was faced with the necessity of continuing to maintain those men on relief.

Mr. Fallow refused to produce the files bearing on the matter—the correspondence between himself and the dominion—when it was requested by counsel for J. J. Bowen, M.L.A., whose charges on the floor of the legislature first precipitated the investigation.

Another startling piece of evidence produced during the week was that showing that a return to the legislature—a formal statement of information which the house had requested—contained false figures.

It was testified that when Mr. Bowen had sought information from the department of public works privately on the subject of the cost of building the Edmonton-Wetaskin highway, Mr. Fallow told his deputy minister that the information could not be given out until it had been requested by the legislature as a whole. That development came a few days later, and the deputy minister had the information prepared. The statement did not give the actual cost, on a unit basis, of the grading which had been done, but stated that the information was not available. Mr. Fallow instructed the deputy to hold up that statement too.

After that deputy had been dismissed a few weeks later, and the legislature renewed demands for the information on road costs, Mr. Fallow's new deputy instructed that a new statement be prepared.

A. P. Paul, office engineer in the department, told the royal commission that he, on instructions of the new deputy, drew up figures on the basis of average costs of building other highways the previous year.

Although purporting to represent the costs of grading the Edmonton-Wetaskin highway, they seemed to bore no relation to that road, he admitted on the witness stand.

The figures which he drew up under instruction, and which were presented to the legislature, represented that the costs of grading the highway was 24.9 cents per cubic yard of "common excavation." The true cost, he admitted, was 29.96 cents per cubic yard on the Edmonton-Wetaskin highway, while another set of figures showed a cost of 33.5 cents on the Leduc-Millet section.

Although the estimate for building the whole 38 miles had been set at $265,000 by the highway commissioner, who was subsequently dismissed, the highway actually cost $285,000—and only 25 miles of the projected 38 had been completed. It was shown.

The former deputy minister and the former highway commissioner testified that they had been kept in ignorance of many new things in the highway program. Key officials who were supposed to be subordinate to them were hired without their knowledge or approval, they said, and in some cases they learned of the appointments only when the paychecks came in. Neither did they receive instructions from Mr. Fallow; instead, he gave orders direct to men he had appointed on the road.

Joseph McKone, who testified that he had been a close friend of Mr. Fallow for 30 years at Vermilion, and whose only previous experience at road-building had been as "foreman" or "mathmaster" of a township crew working out taxes in Manitoba 48 years ago, followed by street-maintenance in Vermilion and by construction of "50 or 70 rods" of private road near that town, was appointed by Mr. Fallow as "general foreman" in charge of the Jasper highway work.

On the witness stand, Mr. McKone admitted that he habitually signed paychecks without examining them; that he had appointed another "general foreman" without consulting anyone—that man being put on the government payroll, although at the same time he was the contractor to whom Mr. McKone, again without consulting his Edmonton superiors, had given the contract for crushing and spreading gravel without arranging prices.

Mr. McKone also admitted that from April to October he drove 12,000 miles on a government car allowance of eight cents a mile, beside his wages as general foreman. It was brought out that at one time the Jasper highway camp was carrying on its payroll two general foremen and three timekeepers. He also placed a government-paid man on duty at a filling station to look after contractors' trucks, he said.

Mr. Fallow had instructed him to hire three certain men and give them government's jobs, Mr. McKone said, but had never told him to give preference to government supporters who wanted jobs. He "sure wouldn't" get his job if Mr. Fallow had not been elected and "got his government job" as minister of public works, said Mr. McKone. He is now working for one of the construction companies holding a contract with the government, and is being paid $250 a month, plus his automobile expenses.

Another witness testified that an old automobile which had been converted into a truck, but still could not carry even three men efficiently, was hired by the government from an oil company agent at a rate of $9 a day. Periodically, this witness said, a crew of five government-paid men equipped with a tractor and a wagon were sent on an expedition to get firewood for one of the contractors' camps. Each trip cost the government $30 in wages and tractor hire to get one wagonload of firewood for the contractor, said the witness.

There were many other startling bits of evidence during the first week of hearing. One statement showed that 10 trucks had been sold to the department of public works by an old friend of Mr. Fallow, for instance. Another said that timekeepers on the government payroll also were instructed to keep books for the contractors. Another testified that although it was known that the day-labor system of road construction which Mr. Fallow adopted as his policy would not be as cheap or as efficient as the contract system by which a company could be held responsible for the finished job with any employment or wage conditions which the government might require, no official of the department opposed the minister's policy. It was testified that, in contrast to the Edmonton-Wetaskin grading cost of 29.9 cents per cubic yard, that on a similar highway in the south, built by a contractor, was 11.9 cents.

Every witness heard during the week testified that he had no knowledge of any commissions or bribes being taken by any official in charge of the work. One witness testified the two highways under review were among the best—though not the best—in the province.

Mr. Fallow himself is expected to be called as a witness near the close of the royal commissioners' investigation.

Mrs. W. Burrows returned on Sunday from Vancouver, and on the way home she was still off to see to visit her daughter, Mrs. Robert Thompson, and Mr. Thompson.

Mrs. Harry Parkinson returned on Monday from Calgary, where she had been for some time with Mr. Parkinson, who is still undergoing hospital treatment for an injury received in the mine early this year.
